From the Staunton (Va.) Vindicator, Aug. 18. President Pierce in Staunton.

Having received intelligence on Thursday morning that his Excellency, the President of the United States would arrive in Staunton on the evening of that day in the Central cars, en route for the Virginia Springs, the following public order was issued by the Mayor of the town, N. K. Trout, esq.:

STAUNTON, MAYOR'S OFFICE,
August 16, 1855.
GENTLEMEN: The Council of the town of GENTLEMEN: The Council of the town of Staunton having been informed that the President of the United States will be in Staunton today, have by resolution directed "that the cordial hospitalities of the town be extended to the distinguished visiter and his suite." In pursuance of said resolution, and at the suggestion of several citizens, I have appointed you a committee to extend the proper welcome and the hospitalities of the town to him and his suite.

Very respectfully. &c... Very respectfully, &c., N. K. TROUT, Mayor.

Messrs. Thomas J. Michie, Benj. Crawford, N. C. Kinney, J. D. Imboden, E. M. Taylor, John Brandeburg, A. J. Garber, W. H. Harman, L. L. Stevenson, Jos. A. Waddell, Capt. Bas-kins, S. MeP. Yost.

kins, S. MeP. Yost.

The committee thus appointed, repaired to the depot about two o'clock to receive the President and suite. The train soon came up. The President was escorted to the interior of the depot by Hon. James M. Mason and Mayor Trout where the Mayor introduced him to each gentleman composing the committee. He and his suite were then conveyed to the Virginia Hotel, where the President was met by a number of citizens. An invitation was extended him to dine with the committee at 5 o'clock, to which he cordially assented. At that hour, a number of citizens, irrespective of party, headed by the Mayor, sat down to one of the most bountiful supplies of all the luxuries and delicacies of the season, we have ever seen—just such a repast as might have been expected on the occasion, although Messrs. McClung & Peyton had but a few hours' notice for preparation. When ample justice had been McClung & Peyton had but a few hours' notice for preparation. When ample justice had been done the substantials, the champagne corks began to crack, and convivality to rule. The health of the President was proposed by Capt. J. A. Harman, to which he responded in a most felicitous manner. He alluded to the pleasure it afforded him of visiting the citizens of Staunton, and breathing the atmosphere of Virginia, not only from its invigorating effects, but on account of its nationality. He adverted to the thoughts suggested as he passed in sight of Monticello, and expatiated with ardent eloquence upon the value and importance of preserving inviolate that great chart of our liberty—the Constitution—in the forming of which Mr. Jefferson acted so prominent a part. His feelings revolted from the torning of which are resolved from the idea of a dissolution of the Union. It would be the Illiad of innumerable woes, from the contemplation of which he shrank. The patriotic and truly national sentiment so gracefully and eloquently expressed by President Pierce in this continued by alluding to the greatness of Virginia, not only as it respected the enlarged patriotism of her people, but her physical resources, and closed by returning his thanks for the cordial welcome that had been extended him.

The health of Senator Mason was proposed by S. M. Yost, to which that gentleman responded. After referring to the circumstance of his being here, and his acquaintance with the hospitality of the people of Staunton, he alluded to the subject which constituted principally the theme of the President's remarks—the preservation of the Constitution in its pristine vigor and spirit, and constitution in its pristine vigor and spirit, and constitution in its pristine vigor and spirit, and con-sequently the perpetuity of the Union. He stated sequently the perpetuity of the Union. He stated that if this Union was to be preserved, the North must do it—the South was powerless, and of herself could do nothing. That if there was a man whose heart beat in patriotic response to the interests of the whole country, upon the broad basis of the Constitution, and one to whom we could lead with implicit response the brief extempore address were frequently applauded by the company, irrespective of parties. He continued by alluding to the greatness of Vir-look with implicit confidence, that man was our distinguished guest, the President.

After dinner, the President, accompanied by various persons, visited the Insane Asylum and the Deaf and Dumb Institution, and expressed himself much pleased with the general management of these establishments, as indicated by the observations made. On Friday morning, in com-pany with Senator Mason, J. S. Barbour, jr., and his suite, he left in a special train of cars, for the terminus of the Road, whence they were taken to the Virginia Springs in the new and handsome stage coaches of Messrs, Harman & Brown. His visit created a favorable impression upon all who came acquainted with him.

The President is looking badly, and wears the marks of great mental labor and care. His lady is in very delicate health, for whose benefit mainly

From the Oshkosh (Wis.) Courier. The "Anthropology," or "Ceresco Free Love Union."

In the western part of the county of Fond-du-Lac, Wisconsin, in a beautiful district of country, lies the pleasant town of Ceresco. Hitherto unknown to fame, the locality seems destined to become suddenly famous, as the location of those modern socialist establishments of the silver sort, which sometimes lead us to doubt whether there is in man the most of the brute, the idiot, or the demon. The history and doctrines of the establishment we gather from the proceedings of a mass meeting held in the neighboring village of Ripon, called to hear the report of an investigating committee, and to take some steps to put down the nuisance. The doctrines of the "Union" were proven to be of the most vile and most diswere proven to be of the most vile and most dis-organizing character, having apparently but one common basis—the lowest sensuality. The hor-rible nature of these doctrines may be judged of from the following brief synopsis:

1. The right of every woman to choose whoever she will to perform the part of a husband for the time, and to change that person as often as she pleases.

2. The duty of woman to yield herself to the

2. The duty of woman to yield herself to the embraces of the man she loves.

3. That these principles, when put in practice, will bring about the millennium, will do away with the pains of child-bearing, and alleviate human suffering in various ways.

4 That fornication may be "holy."

5. That higamy is no arious

5. That bigamy is no crime.
6. That the crime of adultery is "fictitious," and that what the law calls adultery may be the highest and truest relation of which two persons

7. That bastards are the most beautiful children in the world.

8. That society ought to be destroyed.

9. That wives, though idolized by their husbands, and supported in affluence, are to yield to the love of other men if they like them better.

Each and every one of the above "articles of belief" is proven by the committee, by reference to "book and page" of the books which they circulate and receive as text books, and by acknowto "book and page" of the books which they cir-culate and receive as text books, and by acknow-ledgment and public statement of members, to be de facto the belief, as received and acted upon by members of that licentious band, not secretly, but openly and avowedly. The books referred to are the "Esoteric Anthropology," and a work on "Marriage;" the former by a miserable strolling flecturer upon "Woman's Rights," "Socialism," &c., T. L. Nichols, and the latter by the same individual, conjointly with a Mrs. Mary S. Gove Nichols, one of the strong-minded women of the age.

Nichols, one of the strong-minded women of the age.

The history of Ceresco Union may be briefly given. It seems (as stated by the investigating committee) that a Dr. Newberry arrived at Ceresco last summer, where certain minds had been prepared for his doctrines by the study of the works of Nichols; that Newberry taught all the pernicious doctrines of the book which we have reviewed; that some of the persons who now compose the Ceresco Union countenance the same, pose the Ceresco Union countenance the same, and then residents of Ceresco received him into their houses, where he received more marks of confidence and affection than a stranger com-monly receives from the female portion of the household; that it was determined to form an ashousehold; that it was determined to form an as-sociation while Newberry was there; that New-berry proposed and discussed the plan; and that the Ceresco Union is the result; that Newberry publicly stated that he was opposed to marriage, and went further than Nichols. This avowal. was made in the presence of many who now form the Union, who were there countenancing and upholding him. It appears that another important character among the Ceresco Unionists is a Mr. Warren Chase. We quote from the pro-

"Mr. Runnals introduced to the attention of Warren Chase—which letter purported to be from a gentleman in Onondaga county, N. Y., representing that Mr. Chase had been guilty of criminal and licentious conduct in connection with a lady in Auburn, and that he had left her in an extremely unhappy condition." "Mr. Gould denounced Warren Chase as a black-hearted scoundrel." "Mr Runnals said the facts against Mr. Chase were not isolated; they were abundant and notorious. A very voluminous correspondence had been made public, which revealed the character of Mr. Chase in this respect. That correspondence devolved the fact that at least six different women had become victims of Mr. Chase. He had read these letters. He (Chase) can be traced by amors and illicit intrigues all over the country."

over the country."

The conclusion seemed to be, that if the principles of the "Ceresco Union" could be universally carried out there would be "nothing left for us but a prospective generation of bastards and strumpets."

hardihood to put forth such doctrines-doctrines which, if received, would turn the world into a vast brothel and set up such a vile community, where, fulfilling Scripture literally, we find every man "neighing after his neighbor's wife." The regions of the damned could hardly present the realization of a more horrid picture. And yet, these things, these deformities, these horrible exthese things, these deformities, these horrible ex-crescences upon society, are the necessary and legitimate results of the teachings of those wretch-ed vagabonds of the Greeley and Lucy Stone school, both men and women, who stroll through the country, and, under the guise of some social reform, are preaching "Socialism," "Spiritual-ism," "Woman's Rights," and all other abomiism, "Woman's Rights," and all other abomi-nations. There seems to be a hankering with such persons in some way or other, to get back to the filthy sty of heathenism—unbridled license. We think the people in the neighborhood of Ceresco do well to protect themselves against such people, as they would against wild beasts.

> Sick Headache Remedy.—A remedy for the sick headache, which has been recently offered to the public, is attracting great attention, not only to the public, is attracting great attention, not only by reason of the very satisfactory testimonials to its efficacy which have been volunteered by many who have been benefited by it, but also because there are so great a number of people who are afficited with the distressing complaint, for which no medicine has before been made public. Dr. Eastman, who discovered the efficacy of his "remedy," is a physician in this city, in his strading edy," is a physician in this city, in high standing, with a large practice. He is a physician in whom great confidence is placed; and we do not wonder that his remedy for a very common disease, which has been so long needed, has attracted the attention of all sufferers from headache who have heard of it. From our own knowledge of Dr. Eastman's char acter and practice, we have no doubt that the medicime deserves the favor it receives, and that it will prove to be a great benefit to all who may give it a trial.—Lynn News, December 23, 1853.

Capitol Dome .- Mr. Pringle Sleight, the musr carpenter of the Capitol extension, has nearly mpleted the various parts which are to compose the massive scaffolding, to be erected in the rotundo, to facilitate the removal of the dome. (as authorized by the last Congress,) which is to be relaced by one of iron, of far higher, and of graceul proportions, and in architectural keeping with he appearance of the Capitol, improved by the two additional wings.

Attached to the scaffolding is to be a spiral airease, in order that the ascent and descent of he workmen may be made with perfect safety, and the material composing the dome brought down, piece by piece, without injury to the rotun-The timbers for this purpose are of the heaviest kind, and for strength would probably upport the Capitol itself.

On the east front of the building is a kind of ooden railway, taking the inclination of the steps of the portico, to be used for removing purposes. In fact, the arrangements are on the most exten sive scale, and these show the importance of the work to be performed. It is under the superintendence of two engineers, subordinate to Capt. Meigs

While the work is progressing, the pictures in the rotundo will be properly protected, as may be conceived. They are too valuable to be exposed to the dust and fragments attending the destrucion of the dome.

The scaffolding will probably be erected in the ourse of the next two weeks, when the work of demolition will be commenced.

After the dome shall have been removed, the rotundo will be protected from the influence of the weather, until the iron castings for the new dome shall be completed and erected; which period, we presume, is far distant, as, according to our information contracts have not yet been to our information, contracts have not yet been made for the performance of that work. It will be remembered that Congress appropri-ated one hundred thousand dollars for the erection of an iron dome, the present one being com-posed of combustible materials, and certainly not graceful in its proportions.

District Armory .- During the last Congress, t will be recollected, an appropriation of thirty thousand dollars was made for building an armory n Washington, both for the use of the volunteer militia and as a depository for the trophies acquired by our arms. It is to be erected on the public square lying between B street on the south, Canal street on the north, Seventh street on the west, and Sixth street on the east. As a preliminary of this too long-delayed, but desirable work, projosals, we perceive, have been invited for building the armory; the limit to their reception being the twentieth of October next

Library of Congress .- Among the improve. ments in and about the Capitol, is the erection of an iron railing in the room of the Library of Congress, enclosing the ranges of books in the arious eases, on the first floor; the guard being breast-high, and designed for the protection and safety of the rare and valuable collection of volumes. It is handsomely constructed, and in accordance with the elegant style and architecture, so much admired. The Joint Comittee on Visitors thus being cut off from immediate and unrestrained access to the books, they will be required to make application to the courteous and commodating librarian and his gentlemanly ssistants, who as heretofore, will doubtless, afford the proper facilities. Experience proves that some such new arrangement as that to which we have referred should be made; and it is one in which, were all the facts stated, the public Congressional Nominations .- The Knownothing Convention of the sixth district of Maryland assembled in this city on the 20th instant, and nominated as their candidate for Congress, Dr. W. W. Watkins, of Howard county. General T. F. Bowie, of Prince Georges county, had previously been nominated by the opponents of the secret and proscriptive organization. This district was represented in the last Congress by the Hon. A. R. Sollers.

Relief .- From a basty calculation, we are in lined to believe that the aggregate amount of moneys collected in this city for the relief of the sufferers by the yellow fever in Portsmouth, Gosport, and Norfolk, is about twenty-five hundred dollars, and this sum will, doubtless, be further increased, as contributions continue to be made for this truly charitable purpose.

THE next session of this Institution will commence on Monday, the 3d of September,
The Preparatory Department and Collegiate course are both conducted by able and experienced Professors, who devote themselves to the moral and intellectual advancement of those confided to their care. A large and spacious build ing has just been completed to be used exclusively for the accommodation of the younger students. Their dormitory, play-grounds, study-hall, class-rooms, &c., will be entirely distinct from those of the other students, and officers especially assigned will attend them in their pastimes and preside will attend them in their pastimes and preside over their studies. A complete separation will thus be effected between the younger and older students, the advantages of which must be appa-rent to all those who have the least experience in the education of youth.

The Observatory of the College, its extensive Philosophical apparatus, rich and varied Libraries, and Cabinet of Minerals, Geological Specimens and Shells, afford to the students of this Institution advantages rarely to be met with.

DROSPECTUS.-SOUTHERN CONSERvative Magazine.—When new aspirants for popular favor are announced, the public have a right to demand the grounds upon which such show of title to their patronage is made. In ne-knowledgment of this, we trace the customs of parties in the avowal of principles; of religious sects, in the promulgation of creeds; and of per-sons in all pursuits of life, dependent upon the public for success, in their preparatory expositions of plans and purposes. The customs thus originof plans and purposes. The customs thus originating, though sometimes abused, are useful and proper, and should not be discarded. And when, in obedience to custom, new plans are proposed, those approving ought not to withhold their encouragement, as too many do, until they see that success is sure, for their aid may be needed to secure it. Such a foolish policy as this jeopardizes the plan they approve, and hastens its failure; it has defeated many important enterprizes, and it has defeated many important enterprizes, and has deprived the country of good and useful works. If a new proposition of any kind is approved by the public, the support of those approving is of right expected, their approval being solicited only in the view that their more substantial aid will not be withheld. not be withheld.
BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PLAN OF THE

zine literature. In this belief, and with such an m, we announce the Southern Conservative Magazine. The new megazine will be national and not branches of the great family of the church.

It will be political, but liberal; owing no slavish allegiance to parties or politicians, it will advocate measures, not men, and will labor only for the success of principles. It will be progressive, yet sternly opposed to the reckless spirit of innovation so rife in the country-aiming to elevate and advance, not de-press; to reform and improve, not to destroy; sacredly adhering to the true intent of our grea republican theory, and laboring to advance it to

It will be truly American in tone and sentiment, but will be truly American in tone and sentiment, but will repudiate nothing foreign, merely because so; believing that the good, the useful, and true belong not, par excellence, to any favored people, but are the common right of all.

It will be the organ of pure conservatism.

It will encourage a high-toned literature, and defend pure morals in all the social relations of And it will number in its corps of regular conributors some of the ablest political and literary writers of the country.

The magazine will be printed on the finest

TO LOVERS OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE TO LOVERS OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE
THE Advertiser, a Frenchman and graduate of the Polytechnic School of Paris, respectfully offers his services as a teacher of his native tongue to Schools, Classes, and Private Pupils of this city and vicanity. The system he follows to facilitate the acquisition of the French Language, unites in due proportion theory and practice; by which are avoided the difficulties the student often meets with in pursuing one of the many theoretical grammars, not sufficiently showing the idiomatical part of the language, or a practical one, in which the necessary grammatical roles, if not entirely, at least far too much, are neglected. In following these theoretical grammars, the student must have experienced that neglected. In following these theoretical grammars, the student must have experienced that after having devoted a long time to the mere memorizing of sentences, he find himself in possession of a number of set phrases, valuable it is true, but from which, destitute of landmarks, the slightest deviation must lend him into unknown regions.

The advertiser feels confident in the assertion that the pupil, in adopting his method, may, with a little effort, after a course of forty-eight lessons, understand and speak the French, and find the assistance of a teacher not necessary in the further prosecution of the studies of that language.

Instruction in Pencil Drawing. Pastel Painting, and Penmauship, can also be had from the advertiser.
